

Quarterly Seminar

Impact of Information and Communication Technology in Compact Libraries 25th January 2020.

Venue: DAIICT, Gandhinagar

This Quarterly Seminar on Impact of Information Communication Technology in Compact Libraries has been organized jointly by ADINET & DAIICT, Gandhinagar.

Theme:

The use of ICT will enable libraries to provide efficient library services and accurate information to users. ICT has entered the libraries of all sizes for several years. The focus of this Quarterly Seminar is to ascertain various ICT tools, which can be used to empower compact libraries with limited resources. Discussions are expected around the kind of challenges one faces while adopting the technology and how innovatively these are getting resolved.

Venue:

Dhirubhai Ambani Institute of Information and Communication Technology (DAIICT), Gandhinagar, is situated near Infocity.

DAIICT is spread over 50 acres of land in Gandhinagar. The campus is designed as an environmentally conscious campus in the country. The architecture of DA-IICT is functional, but what surrounds it is a fascinating garden. The entire design is oriented towards preserving the environment. The campus with trees, lawns and bushes bearing green leaves and exotic flowers surrounding the buildings and pathways instils environment consciousness among students and enrich their learning.

DAIICT conducts graduate and post-graduate and doctorate programs especially in ICT & also in communication design.

The DAIICT Resource Centre is spanned across 2 buildings with an area of approximately 16000 square feet. It has a rich and diverse collection of nearly 36000 books, about 5600 electronic journals, AV collection and has a repository of scholarly publications of faculty and students.
